- Create offers to buy and sell in minutes
- Track offers by commodity and set alerts
- Sell in an open market or to select buyers
- Negotiate directly, using on-line communication tools
- Review completed transactions covering any time period

How It Works

As an online, open marketplace, AgriWorld Exchange maximizes your ability to trade agricultural commodities around the world utilizing the latest Web-based tools. For both buyers and sellers, the experience is as familiar as the traditional way of doing business – but it’s faster, cheaper and more efficient. Use your existing computer and a Web browser: no expensive software or hardware upgrades are required.

Sellers can create an online “offer to sell” for single or multiple items, complete with photos and detailed descriptions. Sellers can choose to complete a sale to single or multiple buyers, at the same or different prices, on full or partial quantities, privately to a select group of clients or publicly to the highest bidder.

Buyers can track commodities they are interested in buying, review sales offers and submit bids. Communication is easy - buyers and sellers can communicate via email, instant messaging or phone, and can negotiate and accept offers through our interactive online process. Account information is readily available, allowing members to review current offers, final purchases, sales and account history.

About Us

AgriWorld Exchange was founded by produce industry experts and technologists who know how to bring the benefits of e-commerce to this challenging environment.

Our vision: to revolutionize the way agricultural commodity products are traded worldwide. Through AgriWorld Exchange, traders will be able to reach any buyer or seller in the world, significantly enhancing their marketing ability and overall profitability.
